

PUBLISHED IN :

JUILLET 2008

THE hottest restaurant in Paris right now is Cameleon. The night before the Gastronomy on the Seine conference, Wolfgang Puck ran into Gael Greene, Betsy Bernardaud and cookbook authors Andrew Dornenburg and Karen Page, at Jean-Paul Arabian's eatery. Puck declared its foie de veau the best he'd tasted in 30 years. The California superchef also shared the secret behind one of the most coveted items at the upcoming West Coast Citymeals-on-Wheels benefit, a Puck-prepared dinner with LAPD Chief Bill Bratton and wife Rikki Klieman - "no traffic tickets for a year," he joked.